Fall 2000 Endarch Special Edition on Walter Rodney:

The Editorial Board of Endarch Journal of Black Political Thought at Clark Atlanta University's Department of Political Science invites submissions for our special issue dedicated to the memory and legacy of Walter Rodney. The human legacy of Walter Rodney was shaped in a fundamental way by the quest to clarify and chart a course that was consistent with the liberation and human development of African people. We welcome scholarly articles, essays, and book/film reviews which relate to the legacy of Walter Rodney as well as both contemporary and historical issues relevant to the lives of African people, i.e. articles in the areas of agrarian reform, African women, global capitalism and neo-liberalism, Pan-Africanism, contemporary struggles in the African Diaspora, populist movements for African national liberation, intellectual property rights, pre-colonial African history, politics of the Caribbean, the relevancy of the state in Africa, ecological stability and sustainable development, political theory, and development.

Instructions for Typing Drafts

We prefer that Word for Windows be the word processing software used for your typed draft. If you do not have Word for Windows, use Word Perfect for Windows. If you do not have either, use any windows-based program and save in it a Word for Windows format. If you are still using a DOS-based program, save the document in Word Perfect 5.1 DOS format or ASCII.

Please adhere to the following guidelines:

1. Double-space all the narrative. Use the CG Times font if available, if not use New Times Roman. Single-space the endnotes.

2. Tables and charts can be single or double spaced. Do not space columns in tables. Try to avoid using tab settings. We prefer that you use the table formatter that uses cells in rows and columns. Do not try to make fancy tables. Please refer to the tables in the Spring 2000 issue. If you can not line up decimals and dollar signs correctly, do not try to space them or “doctor” them to avoid formatting problems. Simply type the numbers and text in the cells; we will fix them.
3. On the first page type the title of the article on the first line and the author’s name on the next line and the affiliation on the third line. Proceed with the draft on the next line. No cover page is necessary.

4. Only use bold in the headings as is outlined in item 11. Below and to emphasize text where necessary.

5. Do not have the default set to hyphenate.

6. In the footnotes, italicize the names of books, newspapers, and magazine. Do not underline them unless you do not have the capability to italicize. This is needed to improve our production time. The footnote reference numbers should be superscripted. Do not use p. or pp. See illustration of footnote below:

7. Op. cit. and ibid. are not underlined, bold or italic.

8. When you indent texts or lists more than one line long, please use the indent feature (DO NOT RETURN AT THE END OF EVERY LINE AND TABLE INDENT). To indent use the indent format feature. In essence you should only use the return key at the end of a paragraph or end of the listing; this will allow for format changes and make additions easier without throwing off the perimeters.

9. Do not type the entire draft in upper case.

10. Number the pages at the center bottom.

11. Chapter headings should be formatted as follows to make it easier to determine sub-levels and to facilitate product.

   Level One Headings: Centered and Bold
   Level Two Headings: At the Left Margin, Bold and Italic
   Level Three Headings: Center, Bold and Italic
   Level four: Run into the paragraph, indented, italic, with a period, and not bold.
